DETAILED ACTION

1. This is in response to the Applicant's amendment of August 10, 2007. No claims have been amended except to correct minor punctuation informalities. The Examiner hereby withdraws the rejection of May 23, 2007. Claims 1-9 have been examined.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. Claims 1-9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Tozzoli et al., U.S. Pat. No. 5,717,989 (hereinafter, Tozzoli), in view of Stroh, U.S. Pat. No. 7,155,409.

where the document contains a list of classes of counter parties together with counter party selection entry facilities (col. 6, line 45 – col. 8, line 67 and Figs. 1-5); permitting a seller to identify classes of buyers with whom they will, or will not, develop a transaction, by entering selections on the counter party selection document using the counter party selection entry facilities (col. 6, line 45 – col. 8, line 67 and Figs. 1-5);

providing an offer document on request to a seller to view, where the offer document contains the following items: a list of classes of asset together with asset selection entry identifying the terms for the offer by using the offer selection entry facilities and offer information entry facilities (col. 6, line 45 – col. 8, line 67 and Figs. 1-5); identifying the offer documents to accompany the offer by using the offer document selection entry, facilities and offer document attachment facilities (col. 6, line 45 – col. 8, line 67 and Figs. 1-5);

Tozzoli does not explicitly disclose providing a web site accessible via the internet to sellers and buyers using computers and forfaiting.

However, Stroh teaches a trade financing method that includes forfaiting and utilizes the internet via a web site. Therefore, it would have been obvious to one skilled in the art at the time of the Applicant's invention to include the aforementioned limitations as disclosed by Stroh within Tozzoli for the motivation of selling goods and services over the internet and by forfaiting.

As to claims 2-7, the Examiner takes Official Notice that the following limitations are old and well known in the trading arts:

further step of repeating the last two steps, where the document available at the web site contain electronic links to independent sources of financial information, where the document available at the web site contains electronic links to standardized forms of documents, such as asset definition documents used to support instances of the offer document, where the document available at the website contains electronic links to standardized forms of undertaking documents, further step of the exchange providing the on-line assistance in completing the process, and further step of the exchange providing an asset screening document for use by potential buyers to select the types of asset they wish to view, and not view. Financial websites normally have links with information, standard forms, directions, as well as provide on-line help to customers.

As to claim 8, Tozzoli discloses a computerized exchange (abstract) comprising:

However, Stroh teaches a trade financing method that includes forfaiting and utilizes the internet via a web site. Therefore, it would have been obvious to one skilled in the art at the time of the Applicant's invention to include the aforementioned limitations as disclosed by Stroh within Tozzoli for the motivation of selling goods and services over the internet and by forfaiting.
